Technetium-99m-sestamibi uptake in the failing heart: a new indicator of cardiomyocyte and myocardial viability. Myocardial perfusion scanning has been shown to be a sensitive marker of myocardial viability. To test whether myocardial viability can also be detected using other functional imaging techniques, the myocardial uptake of technetium-99m-sestamibi (99mTc-MIBI), a calcium analog and substrate of the plasma membrane pump, was determined in 28 patients with hemodynamically severe heart failure (NYHA class III-IV) and severely reduced left ventricular function. Endomyocardial biopsies (EMBs) were performed at the time of the 99mTc-MIBI study. At EMB, 25/28 (89%) had a reduction of the nuclear fraction and 16/28 (57%) had a cellular retention of technetium-99m-MIBI. For patients who had EMB, the cardiac index rose from 2.16 +/- 0.63 to 3.21 +/- 0.91 l/min/m² (P 0.3). In the patients who had 99mTc-MIBI imaging only 1/13 (8%) had a good perfusion reserve, 5/13 (38%) had a residual defect in regions showing cellular retention at EMB, and 7/13 (54%) had a normal wall motion at this time. This study provides further evidence that 99mTc-MIBI can identify regions of "micro-viable" myocardium. This "rediscovered" capability may be helpful in the detection of cardiac grafts after transplantation.Q: Split url query string in URL Rewriting and AutoMapper So I have a site that has two separate modules. One of the modules is for authentication and the other is for non-authenticated users. Each module uses a separate URL structure and uses two separate controller actions. I have a need to convert the URL structure for the controller actions from the authenticated version 3e33713323
