"Each time he's the son of the Irish O'Donnell, he's cursed by a random girl he meets." "So, your grandma just never met this girl?" "No, he's never met the girl before." "So, he's never killed anybody before." "Not that I know of." "And you really think that he killed her?" "All we know is that there was a murder... committed by a father who was wearing this." "I mean, if it is his son," " I'm thinking it's domestic." " Yeah." "It's definitely a domestic." "I mean, if he had the sense to keep this on, it's a dead woman, hands curled up." "I mean, if he tried to prove he didn't do it, it's an accidental death." "I'll check out the parents, see if they have an alibi." "And the wife has a lawyer." "But we know he did it." "So, I'll get a search warrant for his room." "Your kid is gonna be there." "There's no way he was involved in a murder." "It was just some girl." "Yeah, that was two months ago." "And besides, that was before he met her, right?" "Before her, he's an adult." "He's over 18." "So, he's over 18." "Now, he's meeting the kid." " What's that about?" " It's about him." "He's a kid." "He's a kid." " You said you met her before." " Not like this." " Not like what?" " Not like he killed her." "I mean, it could've been an accident." "Then she finds out he's the son of the O'Donnell who killed her sister." "What does she do?" "If she tells the cops, he's a suspect." "But you said he was just a kid." "She leaves him." "It
