What's new:

(2017 film) is a 2017 Japanese science fiction disaster film directed by Masahiro Shinoda starring Yūsaku Matsuda, Kento Yamada, Megumi Han, and Shunsuke Ishikawa. It was released in Japan on January 23, 2017. Plot Ninety-year-old scientist Mr. Nagi created robots called "Robot Knights" to save the whole Earth, but his assistant is revealed to have built an error which activates and takes over the robots. For the last two years, Inui, a powerful and cunning businessman, has plotted to take over the world through a steelman company and destroy the Great East Japan Earthquake-caused nuclear power plants. To this end, he has brought in Tatsuya and his associates to build an island fortress around the sanitary island of Kita-ku, and acquire the machines that can keep the robots in check, and was apparently using the West Japan earthquake and tsunami to bring in the perfect storm. Nagi escapes the explosion at the fortress by jumping into a robot. However, the headquarters fall prey to Inui and his associates, prompting Inui's earthquake-oriented robots to take over other robots to slay Inui's robots, until Tatsuya and Kanade arrive. Kanade destroys an external robot, but just when Tatsuya is about to die, Kyoko freezes time. As soon as the two are revived, Kaho infiltrates the robot, and the two follow in hopes of finding Mr. Nagi. En route, Nagi uses an electric wave to bring back Yuka, who, feeling guilt for her part in his betrayal, acknowledges Takumi's love and helps him resolve the problem. On the mountain top, Mr. Nagi manages to complete his "Robot Computer". Possessed by the Robot Computer, the robots interfere with their own programming, such that Miss Kobayashi's copter would freeze time in place, Chiriyo, Tetsuko, and Yuka's nuclear powered robots would help the robots. Takumi aids them in destroying the robots, leading to the seemingly-dead Tatsuya becoming non-corporeal. Meanwhile, in Tokyo, the robots start to melt down all of the infrastructure, forcing Kao and the others to the roof to defend themselves. Murakami attempts to stop the robots, only to be stopped by the SRP, who inject him with an experimental drug to control the robots,
