What's new in Magia X - Morgan:

a Magia X is back again for more amusing and often bizarre humor. This time we have Jett, a recent addition of a man wearing a cape and claiming to be the infallible X-man. We are then greeted with the scene of a man emptying buckets of water onto a staircase, because he's upset about his wife following a new "relationship", but then discovers that "magicks" are real! Soon, discovering he's too old to understand what's going on with the magic of the world, except those people who only know all the real stuff and everyone else not really bothered with real things. This sort of crazy story is what Magia X is all about. Enjoy. Next, Morgana comes to us in a steamy two-shot with Robin. We are reminded of that well-known sexual tension with two women; is it a direct throw back? Is it also an accidental throwback? Yes, very possible and we are sure to stay to find out more. The next three pages comes to us as Robin and Grayson soothes each other's pains in a hot bath. The chapter title paints a sound picture of fun by saying, "Make Believe". We also are given a beginning scene before this page tells us, "The Baddest Blues", as we are feeling somewhat lonely tonight. When we are confronted with the intense red color by the main character, "Jett", who is being processed by a black bin and the evil white circle or line of white people surrounding this black bin, Jett is yelling for help. The circle never answers his pleas and continues to destroy him. We learn that the black bin is filled with the evil black circle. We are given by black circle degradation: "Relax... you deserve it." "You've been nothing but a lousy husband to me..." "You've been nothing but a real jerk." Then, a hum of nastiness shows that the man is in pain as the evil circle is chanting: "Die!" "Die!" "Die!" And then, the evil black circle tries to break free from the black bin. At the same time, another evil circle of white people is trying to relax a sadist from the scene, as they move in
