UPERFLEX from Supaplex has the potential to solve the problem of drying of the foam when supersizing and the method of mixing the foam compositions prior to dispensing them from their containers. Squaresuperflex is a mix of lube, powder, spring, plastic and magnesium plates impregnated with a liquid polymer. While Squaresuperflex is dispensable from a squeeze bottle, it also may be dispensed from a pump/dispenser mix into a compressor, as would be done with other solid compositions. Squaresuperflex can be pre-blended to increase shelf life prior to a final shipping mix. In addition to being pre-blended, Squaresuperflex may be pre-dispensed in an amount selected by the user to suit their preferences. Does Squaresuperflex really work as described? This information is presented here for the benefit of the human users. Squaresuperflex is basically a mix of lube, powder, spring, plastic and magnesium plates which are then impregnated with a liquid polymer to form a foam. This foam can be compressed in the squeeze bottles to produce a foam adequate for the application being used. Squaresuperflex is suitable for application as a release agent with industrial lubricants. Squaresuperflex may also be applied as a convenient dispersant/demulsifier. Squaresuperflex: Functional foam, de-foam dispensable Supaplex, the manufacturer of Squaresuperflex, has demonstrated a highly functional non-aerosol, non-sprayable foam exhibiting two stabilizing properties: Static stabilization, preventing fuel collection Shelf life (4 or more months of duration in air) Squaresuperflex is dispensed from squeeze bottles of three sizes (750 ml., 1 gallon, 1.5 gallons) under the influence of spring pressure, unlike aerosols which are dispensed using pressure from air. The result of this is that Squaresuperflex only is activated when air is introduced, instead of allowing a spray full of air to activate and spread out a product that has been mixed. In addition, Squaresuperflex is dispensed as a foam which does not spray. Although there are many types of foam, Squaresuperflex is gas dispensed foam. (This foam dispensed type has been termed "extended foam" in the past.) Unfortunately, liquid aerosols can spray, and therefore this is not an all good feature.
