Children's Hospital is fortunate to have an extraordinary medical staff of neonatal care physicians who share a common commitment to providing the highest level of excellence in patient care. The hospital is also home to more than 170 nurse practitioners, physician assistants, physician extenders, advanced practice nurses, and certified nurse midwives. Neonatal care is a constantly changing specialty. Maintaining high standards of excellence is a core value of the Department of Pediatrics at J.S.M. and of the Boston University School of Medicine. As such, we will continue to focus our efforts on the recruitment, training, support, and retention of the most accomplished physicians and advanced practice providers.Q: check if is not empty in perl.. (replace \N{...}) Need to check if the variable is not empty, and replace it by another string. So here is what I have LANGUAGE =~ s/N{PLAIN}{...}//g; LANGUAGE =~ s/N{PLAIN}{...}//g; Both return Context is 'N{PLAIN}{...}' is not empty But the replacement should be - Context is 'N{PLAIN}{...}' is empty A: Assuming the question is about syntax, then the following substitution would work: LANGUAGE =~ s/N{PLAIN}{\z}//g; It looks for an empty string as a match at the end of the string. March's Small Business Owners Point to 'Perfect Storm' of Economic, Social Issues The Collapse of the U.S. Economy And Corporate Enablers For months, the stock market is reeling from the collapse of the U.S. economy, with negative impacts affecting both consumers and business owners. The more than 9,000 businesses started by small business owners in 2013 had a median income of $37,000, which is double the level of seven years ago, according to the latest survey conducted by the National Federation
